Raicon
Award winning land developer & home builder in British Columbia

There are only so many ways you can frame a house, construct a wall or paint a room. A builder that does things right should be the least of your expectations. A builder that does things better, however, has a level of pride, skill, experience and dedication that can be harder to find. That's where Raicon shines.

Founded in 2005, Raicon Developments Inc. produces some of British Columbia's best new homes, operating as a developer, builder and project manager.

A family-owned company with a history of building award-winning houses and distinctive communities. With a keen understanding of what makes a community a preferred place to grow your roots. Raicon has an exceptional reputation for architectural integrity, classic design, and outstanding customer service.
